East Timor Ploughshares

women disarming for life and justice

British Aerospace (BAe) is one of the world's largest arms manufacturers. They are currently building 24 Hawk fighter aircraft for delivery to Indonesia - a dictatorship which is committing genocide in neighbouring East Timor.

Andrea Needham, Joanna Wilson, Lotta Kronlid & Angie Zelter

On 29th January 1996, women from the East Timor Ploughshares group used household hammers to disarm one of the £13 million Hawk fighter planes bound for Indonesia. On 22nd July* when they stand trial for their action they will put the spotlight on BAe's and the UK Government's crimes of aiding and abetting genocide....
